

Over 30 years experience in the Export Packing business

Export, Logistics, and a lack of Warehouse space are all hot topics, just now, but amid all the talk of storing the goods, getting them out to customers and handling returns, a key element tends to be overlooked – Packing.

All the export and shipping effort in the world is of no use if your goods arrive damaged, and in consequence have to be replaced, to say nothing of the loss of reputation and your client/recipient's disappointment.

Amanda Brewer knows all about packing goods, having been in the business for over 20 years. She has experience developed in all aspects of the industry from Sales, Administration, Production, Project Management, Logistics and Storage.

Two years ago, on July 6th 2015, Amanda's business Integrity Packing Ltd started trading. Along with her colleague Steve Evans, they developed and started to grow the business.

It was a huge leap of faith, but having talked her ideas through, and with the support of Voith Paper, a previous customer, who provided the working space needed, within their complex, in Middleton, Manchester, she began to realise the possibilities and decided to go for it.

Integrity Packing Ltd has its own entrance, reception, meeting/boardroom, stores, staff area and sales office. The shopfloor areas are 3,000 sq ft each, one with a crane capacity of 5 tonne, where all manufacturing takes place, and the other with crane capacity of 20 tonne, where all packing is completed.

Amanda is currently looking to further extend her packing area to accommodate a number of customer orders at one time. Also Loading Bay No 2 door is being heightened to a maximum 5 metres, again to accommodate the needs of her customers.
